

Covenant School of Bridgeport

Middle School Humanities Teacher

Overview: We are seeking a dedicated and passionate full-time humanities teacher to join our faculty. The ideal candidate will possess an affinity for the School's mission of educating boys from underserved communities, and will have a strong background in humanities and teaching middle school aged students.

Who We Are: Covenant School of Bridgeport is a tuition-free, independent middle school serving boys from underserved communities in Bridgeport, CT. We are part of the NativityMiguel network, a national model with a strong track record of academic success in urban education.

Serving grades 5–8, we intentionally maintain small class sizes (maximum 15 students per grade) to ensure individualized attention and strong relationships.

Covenant School inspires boys to:

- Excel academically
- Develop a sense of personal responsibility and strong character
- Become agents of transformation in their families, community and society

Qualities and Attitude:

- Commitment to the NativityMiguel model and a belief in education as a vocation
- Willingness to engage in ongoing professional growth and personal reflection
- Ability to build caring, respectful, and supportive relationships with students
- Patience, humility, strong work ethic, flexibility, and a sense of humor

Teaching and Instruction:

- Teach multiple sections of Middle School history and social justice/religion
- Plan and deliver engaging, student-centered lessons aligned with school curriculum
- Differentiate instruction to meet diverse learning needs
- Incorporate culturally responsive teaching practices

Student Support & Assessment:

- Use a variety of assessments to monitor and support student growth
- Maintain accurate records of student progress (reports, portfolios, etc.)
- Communicate regularly with families regarding student progress and needs

Community & School Life:

- Serve as an advisor/mentor and build strong relationships with students
- Lead or support one additional program area (e.g., extracurricular, enrichment, or student life)
- Participate in school events, field trips, and community-building activities

Professional Responsibilities:

- Collaborate with faculty and school leadership
- Attend meetings, conferences, and professional development
- Uphold school policies and contribute to a positive school culture

Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree in history, English, religion, or a related field (Master's preferred)
- 2–3+ years of teaching experience, ideally at the middle school level
- Strong classroom management and relationship-building skills
- Ability to engage and motivate students from diverse backgrounds
- Experience with differentiated instruction and culturally responsive teaching
- Proficiency with Google Workspace and classroom technology

Compensation & Benefits:

- Salary range: $55,000–$65,000 (based on experience)
- Health and retirement benefits
- Professional development opportunities
- Supportive, mission-driven community
- Small class sizes and high-impact teaching environment

Work Location: 140 Edison Ave, Fairfield, CT 06825

Our Mission:

We develop young leaders who are intellectually competent, open to growth, compassionate, and committed to serving others. Through a rigorous and supportive environment, we guide students' academic, spiritual, and personal development—and continue to support them through high school, college, and into their careers.
